Huck and Marley help people for money. Well, in theory anyway... For some reason, their "help" always seems to involve massive amounts of property damage, a somehow guaranteed collision with the supernatural, and if Marley has his way, a huge body count. They're the Gunpowder Prophets, and a simple job rescuing a girl from a backwoods cult turns weird when the super groovy leader's supernatural powers turn out to be very, very real. It's seventies-style horror mixed with grindhouse action in Gunpowder Prophets. Gonzo over-the-top action horror from Justin Jordan (The Strange Talent of Luther Strode), Patrick Piazzalunga (Monsters are My Business), Roman Stevens, and Taylor Esposito.

GATCHAMAN VOL. 1 DELUXE EDITION — ART PREVIEW

1 SDCC: MICHAEL CHO

1 MCS EXCLUSIVE: FILYA BRATUKHIN (A) + JASON WORDIE (C)

PANEL 1

We cut to a computer screen. On screen is a video graphic of a maze. We see several dots on the maze—three clusters of five dots, all in different sections of the maze.

CAPTION:

Meanwhile…

DR. NAMBU (OP):

Beta Team—you are entering Zone Three.

PANEL 2

Bigger panel.

Moving into the real world, into the maze, we encounter the first of three teams of Trainees. Five people. They are dressed in sleek training uniforms. The uniforms are vaguely reminiscent of the uniforms of the Science Ninja Team, but no helmets, no capes.

They are:

- MARA, the leader of the team
- JACE
- KEIKO
- HARUTO
- SHARO

They should be a diverse group, ranging in age from 15 or so to early 20s.

They are dodging an array of robotic weaponry and weapons that are emerging from the metal walls, ceiling, and floor. Buzzsaws whirling and flamethrowers spouting fire. Lasers crisscrossing overhead as they duck and dive. They are moving through the maze, being guided by a disembodied voice. They leap and somersault and dive and dash to avoid being struck. This should absolutely look like a scene from an X-Men training scenario in the Danger Room.

NAMBU (OP, Radio, Tailless):

Be on guard.

ID CAPTIONS (Near the individuals):

Mara
Jace
Keiko
Haruto
Sharo

MARA:

You don't need to tell me twice.

NAMBU (OP, Radio, Tailless):

Be advised.

You are all that remain.

PANEL 3

We cut to a SECOND GROUP OF TRAINEES elsewhere in the maze. They are unconscious, sprawled on the floor. Or tied up. Out of commission.

NAMBU (OP, Radio, Tailless):

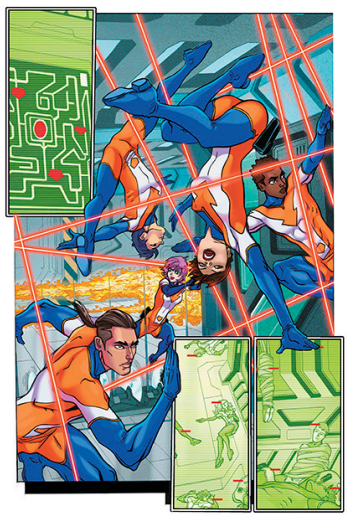

Gamma Team has been eliminated.

PANEL 4

We cut to a THIRD GROUP OF TRAINEES. Elsewhere in the maze, also unconscious. Or tied up. Out of commission.

NAMBU (OP, Radio, Tailless):

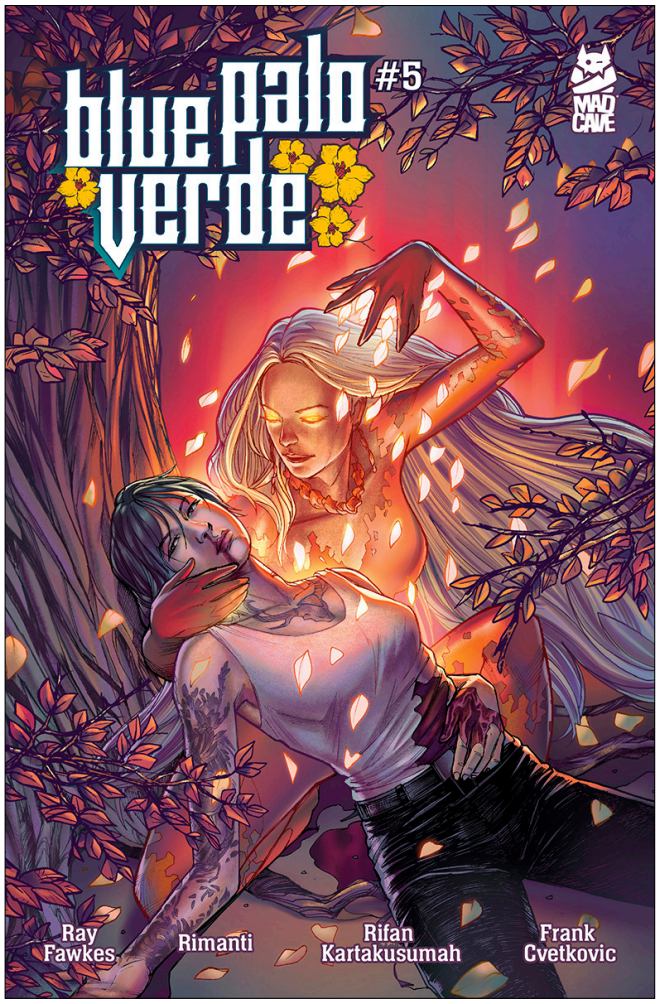

Delta Team is out of commission.

THE STORY

Matthew Howzer never knew his father—a decorated soldier who died in combat. But family stories say he wasn't part of any ordinary unit. He served in The United Five, a poorly kept government secret and the stuff of mid-'90s internet conspiracy lore. Their mission: stop Komodo, a grandiose cult turned terrorist faction claiming to wield knowledge from another realm—power capable of reshaping the world. That secret war ended in 1989, with heavy losses on both sides, including Matthew's father.

Driven by a relentless obsession to learn more about his father's fate, Matthew enlists in the military and uncovers a truth far more brutal, bizarre, and debaucherous than any conspiracy theory could have imagined. Now, after decades in the shadows, The United Five have returned—not as the world's hidden protectors, but to stop the very heroes it once called its own.

Because the greatest threat isn't Komodo anymore. It's The Disavowed.

SpectreVision, the genre-distorting production company co-founded by Elijah Wood and Daniel Noah, joins forces with Oni Press and a rotating cast of premier comics talents for an unprecedented excursion into HIGH STRANGENESS—a brand-new series influenced by real, documented cases of paranormal phenomena, to reveal the liminal spaces where reality and hallucination and science and mythology give way to cosmic wonder and existential terror . . .

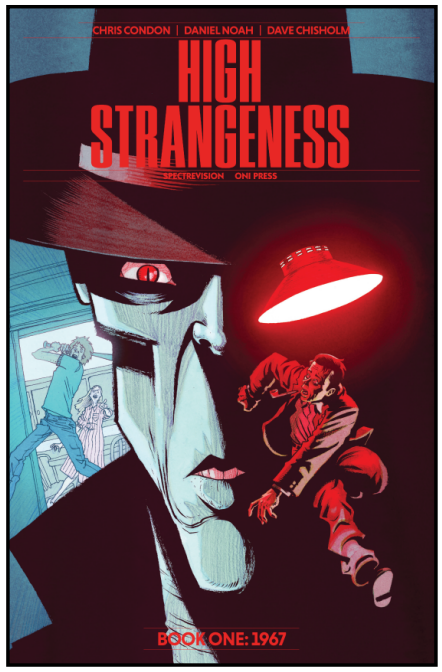

In the first double-sized, prestige format chapter: Writer, producer, and real-life experiencer Daniel Noah joins acclaimed writer Chris Condon (Ultimate Wolverine, That Texas Blood) and Ringo Award–winning artist Dave Chisholm (Plague House) for an unexpected encounter with the Men in Black . . .

Chicago, 1967. Magazine writer Harry Kean is dispatched to rural Indiana to investigate the sudden disappearance of Becky Plume, a local teenager who stepped into the national spotlight with staggering photographic evidence of a recent UFO sighting. Frustrated to leave his developing stories in Chicago—and the wife he's hoping to win back—Harry sets off to expose a hoax but instead finds himself in a labyrinth of high strangeness involving a missing girl, her boyfriend, a UFO, and some mysterious black-clad visitors circling at the perimeter of a mystery more vast than Harry could possibly imagine.

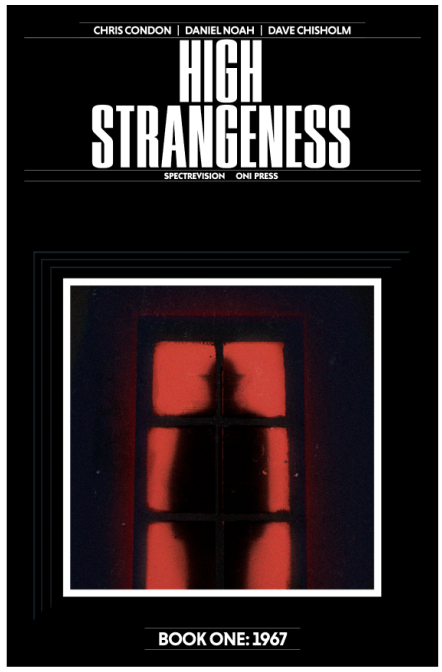

Told across five interconnected, prestige-format issues that will interlock to reveal an ambitious, dimension-spanning finale, each chapter of HIGH STRANGENESS also includes a feature-length essay by podcaster and researcher Jim Perry (Euphomet) on the historical facts and documentary evidence underpinning the phenomena detailed in each issue.

Have you ever wondered why our brightly colored and joyously cheerful Christmas festivities are held at the peak of winter's frigid darkness? Welcome to the small town of Christmas, Pennsylvania—the merriest place on Earth . . . or so they'd like everyone to think. When December rolls around, these folks pull out all the stops for America's biggest, brightest holiday display . . . but not everyone in Christmas, PA, is so enthusiastic. The incredible journey of activist Opal Lee—known as the Grandmother of Juneteenth—is brought to life in this biographical graphic novel that not only explores Opal's remarkable path, but the history of the holiday of Juneteenth itself.

From the 1860s to Ms. Opal's childhood home, from her years as a teacher to the White House, The First Freedom: The Story of Opal Lee and Juneteenth seeks to give readers an insight into the history behind one of the central figures in the creation of America's newest federal holiday, Juneteenth.

Born in 1926, Opal Lee grew up in a racially divided America and dedicated her life to overcoming the obstacles presented therein. A lifelong educator, Ms. Opal has been a community activist all her life, and would take on the movement to celebrate and commemorate Juneteenth not just as a holiday, but as a symbol of comprehensive freedom for all people.

Ms. Opal's life personifies the fight for everyday freedom that leads to lasting change. As the Grandmother of Juneteenth says, "There is so much more to do."
